

Demand Moore Reliability

Redundant Metering Pumps with Splitter

Maintenance is simplified if you separate your redundant metering pumps via a splitter / isolator:

- An isolator configured as a Splitter has one input and two outputs. There is no conductive path between the two outputs nor from the input to either output
- When using redundant chemical feed pumps, the Splitter allows you to take one pump out of service for maintenance without effecting the other pump or the process